DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claims 17, 22, and 23 are objected to because of the following informalities:

Claims 17, 22, and 22 recite the acronyms, "RTK," "PDGFR," and "VEGFR," respectively, without first identifying them. Amending the claim to recite the phrase, "Receptor Tyrosine Kinase," "Platelet Derived Growth Factor Receptor," and "Vascular Endothelial Growth Factor Receptor," respectively, would obviate this objection.

Claim 23 appears to contain a typographical error, "VEFGR." It is believed that the term should be, "VEGFR."

Appropriate corrections are required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 17-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 17 is indefinite for the recitation of the phrase, "generate a model of said RTK polypeptide suitable for use in designing molecules that will act as agonists or antagonists to said polypeptide," because the claims do not set forth clear limitations of what aspects of the compound are to be considered when determining the suitability of the molecules.

Claim 17 is indefinite for the recitation of the phrase, "in designing molecules that will act as agonists or antagonist," in sub-step (c) because the preamble recites the method as being for screening compounds. The term usage is inconsistent with that of the preamble.

Claim 17 recites the limitation "said RTK polypeptide" in sub-step (c). There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim, rendering the claim confusing as to whether the method involves another RTK polypeptide. Amending the claim to recite, "said modified RTK polypeptide," would overcome this rejection.

Claim 17 recites the limitation "said polypeptide" in sub-step (c). There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. Amending the claim to recite, "said modified RTK polypeptide," would overcome this rejection.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 17, 25, and 26 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 9, 10, and 11 (respectively) of copending Application No. 09/939,833 (hereon referred to as '833 application). Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because of the following reasons. The corresponding U.S. Pre-grant Publication, US 2002/0164641 A1 is attached hereto.

Claim 17 of the instant application is drawn to a method of screening compounds suitable as RTK agonists or antagonists via computerized crystallography. Claim 17 further defines the RTK as having a kinase domain a helix D linked to RTK kinase domain a helix E by a truncated RTK kinase domain (KID). Claims 25 and 26 further limit the above claim to the RTK as being VEGFR-2 and an embodiment drawn to the RTK polypeptide comprising SEQ ID Number 5.

Claim 9 of the '833 application is drawn to the same method of screening for compound suitable for RTK agonists or antagonists via computerized crystallography. While the claim does not specifically recite the modified RTK polypeptide structure (e.g., helix D linking to helix E via truncated KID), the specification of the '833 application discloses the above limitation as the only working embodiment (see page 9, [84]). Claim 10 of the '833 application recites the same method as claim 9, except that it is drawn to a VEGFR-2, (claim 25 of the instant application). Claim 11 of the '833 application recites the specific mutation defined by SEQ ID Number 5 (claim 26 of the instant application). For the above reasons, the claims of the instant application is obvious over the claims of '833 application.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Conclusion

No claims allowed.

Art Unit: 1637

The prior art does not teach or reasonably suggest the modified RTK with the truncated KID domain, having a kinase activity, and the claimed method of use.
